

UC Davis Graduate Student Enrollment

UC Davis is a Research I University that welcomes undergraduate and graduate students from a wide variety of personal backgrounds. Across the nation there exist fewer students from historically underserved communities who advance through bachelor's degrees to the pursuit of graduate degrees. UC Davis' Office of Graduate Studies seeks to identify bright, talented, and prepared students from all backgrounds to apply to our 90+ graduate programs. We proactively attend conferences, offer workshops, and connect with partners to attract talented prospective graduate students from underrepresented communities. We invite all students to consider pursuing graduate school degrees and join a growing number of students from diverse backgrounds.
