Grant Writing: One Step at a Time
for Graduate Students & Postdocs

Tuesday, October 6, 2015 | 6:00-7:30pm
Meeting Room 1, ARC (Activities & Recreation Center)

The prospect of writing your first big grant proposal can be daunting. Take some of the anxiety out of the process by participating in Grant Writing: One Step at a Time. In this interactive workshop, we will break down the process of writing a successful grant proposal into a series of manageable steps, including:

- refining your research subject,
- understanding the funding organization’s perspective,
- organizing your proposal, one section at a time, and
- tailoring your writing for the target audience.

Participants are encouraged, but not required, to bring submission guidelines for a grant for which they are considering applying.

Instructor: Melissa Bender, PhD. (English, UC Davis) is a lecturer in the University Writing Program. She has taught writing courses for over twenty years. At UC Davis, she teaches courses in advanced composition, scientific writing, writing in the health professions, technical writing, and writing in History; freshmen seminars on Cold War films and international education, and the Study Abroad courses, “A Tale of Two Cities,” and “The Grand Tour.” Her research interests include the rhetoric of economics, visual rhetoric, material culture, writing pedagogy, and gender studies. She is currently co-editing a collection of essays on best practices in writing assignment design.
